

CALLED "INSANE" BY POLICE WHEN SHE SOUGHT VIOLIN

Miss Hanlon Calls for Explanation of Commitment When Bellevue Discharges Her.

SHE SEES CONSPIRACY.

E. H. Harriman Gave Her $10,000 Stradivarius She Sent to Have Repaired.

Miss Marie F. X. Hanlon, through her attorney, Daniel J. Grady of No. 189 Montague street, Brooklyn, is going to call upon Police Commissioner Crosey to explain how it is that a young woman who comes to Police Headquarters in an effort to get back her stolen property can be railroaded to the insane ward of Bellevue Hospital without being permitted to communicate with her physician, lawyer or friends.

To Miss Hanlon, who, stripped of her own clothing and barged in the coarse underwear and rough wrapper of a charity patient, was kept at Bellevue from 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon until 10 o'clock Sunday morning without due process of commitment, this is as much of a mystery as the whereabouts of her $10,000 Stradivarius violin, lost since last summer, which was the occasion of her misadventure.

Given Her by Harriman. "The violin," said the young woman this morning to a reporter for The Evening World, "was presented to me personally by Mr. E. H. Harriman in the office of my father, Marcus Hanlon, in the Custom House, in 1899.

"Mr. Harriman advised me to invest $10,000, which I then had in Union Pacific common stock after he identified himself with the railroad and when the stock was very low, telling me I could sell it eventually around $20 a share, but I was afraid of stocks and didn't invest.

"When I was singing with the Vandenberg Concert Company early last summer I entrusted the instrument to a man named D'Acugna, a Mexican, who was accompanying for the company, and he was to take it to C. H. Ditson & Co., No. 8 East Thirty-fourth street, for night repairs.

"D'Acugna several times reported that the repairs were not yet ready. In September the Ditson firm told me that the violin that he had bought there had been taken away by him a short time later.

"Then began my experience with the police. I have been sent to and fro like a shuttle between Headquarters and the Harlem Detective Bureau, until Saturday when I came to Headquarters with a letter of introduction to Inspector Russell from Mr. John B. Coary of the Singers' Association, with the result the public already knows."

No Justice in Detention.

Saturday morning, just before the Bellevue episode, Miss Hanlon had been operating for some days. As the result of her weakened condition she passed out while in the hospital, but notwithstanding this fact Dr. Gregory saw no justification for detaining her, and it was on his suggestion that she be committed to the insane ward. She was out of her father's will, she claims that securities of enterprises at Cape Nome, of seal fisheries at Plover Bay and deeds to 6,000 acres of land in Tennessee, inherited by her father, for her, have disappeared and have never been accounted for, and she contends that her recent experience has some connection with the persons involved in the disappearance of the securities.

In 1908 Miss Hanlon brought an action to have her father, now dead, declared incompetent. The action failed and she was cut off in her father's will. She claims that securities of enterprises at Cape Nome, of seal fisheries at Plover Bay and deeds to 6,000 acres of land in Tennessee, inherited by her father, for her, have disappeared and have never been accounted for, and she contends that her recent experience has some connection with the persons involved in the disappearance of the securities.

ONE-HALF BOTTLE OF THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY ACCOMPLISHES WONDERS.

When I sent for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, I had to make water every two or three hours through the day and night. I passed but a very small quantity, but with a scalding and straining at the end of each passage. Before I received sample by mail, I went to our local doctor (and he is second to none in this vicinity) and told him how I felt. He put me up a bottle of medicine. I was about a week taking the medicine, but was no better than when I began. I then began your sample bottle, and before I got through with it I felt change. The scalding sensation did not bother, only a few times in the middle of the day. I would not have believed such a small quantity would have done so much, but before it was gone I learned that our druggist kept Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and to get a large bottle for one dollar but actually worth one hundred dollars. I only took one large tablespoonful three times a day and before I had taken one-half bottle I was all right and have been since. Gratefully yours,

GEORGE S. CHAMPLIN, Ashaway, R. I.

State of Rhode Island, County of Washington.

Personally appeared Geo. S. Champlin, to me well known and made oath that the foregoing statement by him subscribed is true.

E. R. ALLEN, Notary Public.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do for You. Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure to mention the New York Evening World. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

Violinist Who Wants Explanation Of Unjust Commitment as Insane

MARIE F. X. HANLON

involved in the disappearance of the securities. Trained by some detective work which she did for her father in smuggling cases, Miss Hanlon says she has followed up clues and the scent lately has become very warm.

Mystery is added to the whole matter by the statement from the office of C. H. Ditson & Co. this morning that the violin brought to them by D'Acugna was not a Stradivarius, but a much less valuable instrument.

"That being so," said Miss Hanlon, "D'Acugna is responsible for the fraud, and if the police had spent half the time and energy hunting for him that they have apparently spent in questioning my sanity the violin might have been recovered long ago."

GAVE BABY POISON BY MISTAKE, SAYS ACCUSED NURSE

Accused Woman Declares She Administered Lysol Thinking It Was Syrup.

Sara Kaiser, twenty-six years old, was arraigned before Magistrate Breen in the Harlem Police Court today on a charge of having administered a fatal dose of Lysol to a two-day-old infant, Florence Zeldin, child of Mr. and Mrs. Isador Zeldin, who live at No. 71 East Ninety-seventh street.

The prisoner admitted that she had given the child the Lysol in mistake for syrup of rhubarb. She said that she had been employed as a midwife by the Zeldins at the instance of Dr. S. D. Douglas of No. 71 East One Hundred and Eleventh street. She had obtained a midwife's certificate in Russia, she said, but had failed to bring it to America. She was not a graduate nurse and had no nurse's certificate. The young woman was remanded to the Coroner.

After the girl had administered the Lysol and discovered her mistake she rushed out to a drug store and obtained an antidote.

Isador Zeldin went to the East One Hundred and Fourth street station about 4:30 last night and told the police that when he reached his home about 11 P. M. Saturday he found the nurse greatly agitated. She told him about the Lysol and said that when she found the baby in convulsions she administered a mixture of milk, vaseline and water, without alarming the mother.

Dr. S. D. Douglas of No. 71 East One Hundred and Eleventh street attended Mrs. Zeldin in her illness. He stated today that he heard nothing of the accident until 1 o'clock yesterday morning, when Zeldin came to his house.

Zeldin told of the poisoning and of the antidote. Dr. Douglas says he then told the father that everything possible had been done for the baby, for, as the child was then only forty-eight hours old, he could not use a stomach pump.

"He went away satisfied and did not ask me to go to the house," said Douglas. "Yesterday at 9 o'clock I received a telephone call from the nurse. She said the baby was in a bad condition. I went there and found the baby in a serious condition."

Dr. Douglas said Miss Kaiser had been recommended to him as a nurse by her brother William, a druggist of No. 236 Third avenue. She had a diploma from a midwifery school in Russia and had had considerable experience there.
